And, for those who appreciate the truly unique, this home has a sensational two-room cellar-bar complete with beer tap and tavern-to-garden door.

The residence is solid brick, circa 1905; built during the heady gold rush days for a family of considerable wealth. Notable period features include return veranda, soaring ceilings, hall arch with scroll, Baltic pine floors, and full-size sash windows with coloured glass sidelights.

Fully operational, and beautifully restored, the home has four fireplaces with ornamental cast iron surrounds and impressive timber overmantel.
