Most heritage homes have a story to tell, but this one is a little different.

The current owner grew up in this house. To her, it has always been 'home'. Like most families, hers eventually moved on, so imagine her delight to find on her return years later, her beloved childhood home was for sale. Now, 40 years later, it is time to hand it over to another deserving family.

Despite improvements over the years, the spacious Victorian masterpiece retains all the original elegance & character of the era.

The harmonious fusion of classic & modern style includes intricate iron lacework to the front verandah overshadowed by inspiring views of the neighbouring cathedral spire.
