If ever a property was business-ready, this is it.

A comprehensive renovation has adapted the weatherboard Californian bungalow for office use without destroying the enduring character of the dwelling.

Externally, it boasts the usual characteristics include, a low-pitched, twin-gabled roof with battened infill, timber-lined eaves, and an overhanging verandah supported by heavily-built posts. Internal features include a double entry, leadlight glazing to front bay windows, higher ceilings with decorative panels and cornices, polished floorboards and two open fireplaces.

Business-wise, it offers three good-sized offices, a spacious meeting/board room (or 4th office), a kitchenette/tearoom with dishwasher drawer and a Zip tap
